

Identity: A Life of Faith
Life at Home
Ephesians 5:22-28; 6:1-3

Home. For many people, that single word can generate a good feeling—a sense of comfort, security and even longing. After all, “there’s no place like home.” But, living in a family is no picnic. Things are not always ideal in the home. Needless to say, raising a family is not an easy task. It requires hard work, sacrifice, and submission.

1. Our identity in Christ defines a godly _____
 - A. Submission by a _____ shows a love for Jesus
 - B. Submission by the _____ shows a love for Jesus
2. Our identity in Christ defines a godly _____
 - A. A husband demonstrates love through _____
 - B. A husband loves for the _____ of his wife
3. Our identity in Christ defines a godly _____
 - A. Obedience is what is _____
 - B. Obedience enhances _____

Our identity in Christ compels us to live for His glory even in the context of our families. Wives submit. Husbands love. Children obey. Our family life was designed by God to reflect the gospel of Jesus knowing that as we look out for the interests of others, we convey the message that Christ has looked out for the interests of all. We live out our submission to Christ in how we live at home.
