

Victory: A Saved and Sanctified Life
Victory over Fear
Romans 8:31-39

Just about every child has a primal fear of being abandoned—that their parents will put them down one day and never come back. Ever see a child cry when his parents leave the room? They don't understand that mom or dad is just around the corner. Ever get lost in a crowd and feel that sense of panic? I think it is interesting that in a sense, we never get over that fear.

Believers have no reason to _____ separation from God and His love.

1. God is greater than any _____ that threatens us.
2. God is greater than any _____ that threatens us.
3. God is great so we are more than _____.

Are you tired of the failures of people? Are you tired of the failures of life? Jesus once said to his people, and I believe he says to us today, "How I have longed to gather you in my arms." The people of Jesus' day were reluctant. But the invitation still stands for us today. Would you embrace God's salvation, a salvation that was determined by God from before time, a salvation that was completed by God at the cross of Calvary, and a salvation that will exist in relationship with Him for all eternity, simply because our God is infinite in power and love.
