

Prepare Him Room
Let Christ into Your Uncertainties
Matthew 1:18-25

We have all heard the familiar saying, “We don’t know what tomorrow holds.” The impetus behind that proverb is the fact that all of life is filled with uncertainties. At the national level, our politics, our economy, and our moral position are changing at such rapid rates that we don’t know what anything will look like a year from now. We try not to worry, but these uncertainties impact us personally.

1. God is with us when we are _____.

2. God is with us when we are _____.

3. God is with us when we are _____.

Uncertainty has the potential to steal the joy that comes from being saved. It can rob us of our affections for Christ at Christmas. Many people now celebrate Christmas with only the memory of loved ones. Others experience the pressure from a lost job or a failed marriage. Don’t let the circumstances of this life rob you of the joy found in Christ. Let Christ into your uncertainty and rejoice that God is with us.
